lies, by the noblest poet of all times, will be performed to-night, under the auspices of Mr. and Mrs. Wallack. The cast is excellent, and we may bope from it a representation of the piece which will leave an ineffaceable impression on the mind of every listener. Mr. Wallack's version is different from any used at present, heing nearly similar to the old stage editions. The character of the fool, which Mrs. Wallack assumes, is introduced-its covert wit and biting sarcasm setting off to splendid advantage the sublime madness of the old King, the deep treachery of his inhuman daughters, and the assumed insanity of Edgar .with the very idea Shakespear intended. He gives Lear what he possessed a great mind shatered by the inhumanity of his daughters, and a great heart swayed by every generous impulse .-Now towering like a mountain with intellectual greatness-then handying argument with his fool. Now giving vent to passions, terrible as a velcano; then reasoning like a child-his seft old eart carrying him down to the horders of driveling idiocy. Those who can appreciate fine act ing will have something to boast of hereafter, if they can say that they have seen Wallack's King

In the halance of the cast we find Keeble as Edgar; Lorton as Kent; Miss Vernon as Cordelia; Mrs. Gilbert as Goneril, and Miss Schenck as Rogan. These, and others of the company, will fill the characters excellently, and ably sustain the main personation.

WALKER'S EXCHANGE. - An advertisement in anther column of Juo. Cawein & Co., informs the outlie that Walker's Exchange is now as it has ever been - the place where the hest oysters, the fattest and choicest game and other delicacies, and the finest liquors can be had, in the city .-"Walker's" (established by Wm. II. Walker, the eleverest fellow who ever bore that popular name,) an institution of Louisville. For a quarter of a centuary, while other establishments of kindred nature have risen in their glory and gone down, Walker's has flourished. The original projector ome years since retired from active service, but till retaining an interest, he gives his associates the benefit of his extensive experience, and this, with the energy and cleverness of Messrs. Cuwein and John Kohlepph, maintains the enviable ARCTIC PANORAMA To-NIGHT .- This intensely in. eresting work of art continues to hold irresistible sway over enraptured audiences at Mozart fall. The enchanting scenes that continually dont before the eyes of the spectators invest it with a lively interest which deties emulation, and render it eminently successful. The reflection of the solar system upon the Arctic scenery is indescribable. Hyperborean wonders crowd upon the mind with such succesive rapidity that we wish to prolong each scene for further examination. A new world is ushered in before us, the entire exploration of which has battled the mose heroic for ages. Our friends should not forget that this is the last week that the Arctic panorama will remain in this city.

NOT MARRIED, BUT A Miss .- The tapping of the engine bell in the First Ward invited the presence of a policeman, who, on repairing to learn the cause of that alarm, found a young German girl, who beseeched his ald. She said that her lover had promised to marry her on that day, the wedding dress adorned her person, the purson was present, and the bridal cake that he had deserted her wilfuly and without cause. The policeman having no authority in such cases, so informed the maiden, who returned to her domicil, heart weary and alone.

The time was once when no one thought of purchasing what is sometimes called a rateat medicine, unless it came from either New York or Philadelphia. But our friend Dr John Bull has changed all that, and is now engaged in shipping large quantities of his medicine to New York or sale. His Compound Pectoral of Wild Cherry n particular seems to have taken possessisn he field there, and from what we know of its nerit in diseases of the lungs and throat, we will venture the prophesy that it will be a long time before our Eastern friends will be able to supplant it with anything better.

DEBATE AT THE LAW SCHOOL.-The following uestion was debated by the students of the Law chool on Saturday night: "Whether an increase of the tariff should be imposed upon tea and office, for the purpose of nereasing the reveaue." Mr. McMenefee, of Cal., and N. A. Humber, of Crab Orchard, took the affirmative, and Robt. A llamilton, of Louisville, and J. F. Mount, of Ind., the negative. The President, Jno. C. Miller, de cided the question in the negative. There are debates every Saturday night, to which the public are invited.

FALSE ALARM. - On Saturday night a man emerged from Wechtell's boarding house, on Third street, between Main and Water, shouting "murder," "robbery," clc., which drew the attention of some policemen. He asserted that he had been obbed in the house, but an examination proved that his money was in his hat, where he had placed it, and he was drunk, to boot. He had preiously assaulted the bar-keeper, and cut him on be face. As he was not sinned against, but sin ning, he was conveyed to the watch-house to rn-

The Tennessee Bank Robbery .- A dispatch from Jackson, Tenn., says that Miller, the cashier of the bank, who was murdered, received two scattered his brains in every direction. It is thought the murderer was some person of high standing, who had induced the cashier to open the doors after business hours; and from the position in which the victim was found, it is snpposed he was making out a check for the mur.

Carroll, vs. Jno. Crutcher, has been ou trial for three days in the Jefferson Circuit Court. The plaintiff sues Crutcher, as one of the owners of the steamer Glendy Burke, for certain dehts alleged to be due him, amounting to $7,000 or more. Crutcher resists the payment on the ground that he sold his one-third interest hefore these dehts were contracted. The case possesses considerable interest, and eminent counsel are engaged in it.

THE WAR IN SOUTHERN KANSAS .- The Kansas (Republican) papers assert that Deputy Marshal Rapell and his posse are causing intense excitenent in the Southern part of that Territory. Acording to this anthority, he presents no writs, but persists in seizing all who are found with arms, and dragging peaceable citizens from their honses without showing his anthority for so doing. He claims that his principal object is the capture of Montgomery. The indignation which these acts aroused. rapidly increased until the 21st ult., when the first actual collision occurred.

A party of ten citizeus, who had gone out as scouts, were passing by Paris, in Linu county, where Russell was encamped with one hundred and sixty-four men, when they were discovered by a detachment of about sixty of the invaders, who immediately gave a vell, fired upon them, killing one horse, and wounding three men, and commanding them to surrender. One of the wounded, a son of Mr. Snyder, who was shot last spring by Lear is Mr. Wallack's greatest personation. In Hamilton, was captured. Tha posse, however, the character he walks in the highest realms of fared worse than the scouts, about sixteen of them dramatic art. He fills the mind of the spectator being reported dead and wounded. Two other collisions occurred about the same time, in one of which a citizen was killed. The Marshal's forces are constantly levying contributions upon the neighboring farm houses, carrying away provisons and property. The New York News has taken a fresh

We invite attention to the advertisements f Snyder & McCallani, merchants, at No. 24 Wall street. They are exceeding clever men, and pay start in the great race of New York journalism .-

APPOINTMENT OF MAGISTRATE .- His Excellency, Chas. S. Morchead, Governor of the State, has commissioned Maj. Metcalfe magistrate in the First District of this city, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Thos. M. Thurman, Esq. Quite an interesting revival of religion is n progress at several of the churches in the upper end of the city. The County Court is held this day, Judge lonroe presiding.

Neither murden nor other crime has been or can be punished. The Mormons have everything their own way. Judge Sinclair has adjourned his court, and will, on next Monday, adjourn it sins lie, for the reason that the laws of the United States cannot be executed in this Territory. Both Judges Sinclair and Cradlebaugh will leave early next spring, satisfied as they are that their presence as Federal officers in administering the laws, is merely tarcial. A manifesto, carefully prepared, will be issued, as I am informed, clearly setting forth their reasons in detail. I have been a careful observer of events in this Territory, and am now more than ever satisfied Territory, and am now more than ever satisfied that there is no loyalty to the Government among the Mormou people, and that while to a certain extent they pay respect to the mere forms of law, they neither recognize nor respect its spirit. The Indian War in Northern California. The Indian War in Northern California.—
The Humbolt Times, of the 4th inst., says that Gen. Kibbe was in lown on Saturday evening last, an husiness connected with the removal of his prisoners to some reservation, but left again on Sunday morning for his camp. He informed us that on Sanday night, 21st ult., they captured seventeen ranches, taking in all eighty-four prisoners. The ranches were situated on Mad river, being scattered at various distances, from a quarter being scattered at various distances, from a quarter of a mile to a mile apart, and so well was the attack planned and executed, that not a gnu was fired, nor un Indian escaped. It is Gen. Kibbe's impression that the guns of the Indians are either hid out, or that they are in the hands of other Indians as only two were to be found in the guns. Indians, as only two were to be found in the en-tire number of ranches taken. Another evidence of it is, that an Indian was surprised and killed near Angel's Ranch, one day last week, and upon his person was found a shot pouch with a consid-erable amount of powder and ball, and caps, but

He had, when he left the camp, about one hundred and twenty prisonners, and as Captaiu Messac was on the track of more, they have no doubt between two and three hundred by this time.

The Indians are completely whipped, and if the authorities, in whose charge the Indians will be placed, perform their duties as well as Gen. Kibbe and the ollicers and men under him, there is but little room to doubt that this expedition will be the most creditable and successful one ever undertaken in California.—San Francisco National,

EXCITEMENT AGAINST DR. BEVERLY COLE .- Dr. R. Beverly Cole, of San Francisco, has given great offence by the publication of au article in the California Medical Transactions. The nature of his offence is not specified, but may be inferred to be allegations derogatory to the women of California. All the papers denounce him in bitter terms .-The National says:

He has unhesitatingly told the fathers and nothers of the land, that their daughters are "whited sepulchres;" husbands, that the wives of heir bosonis arc impersonations of moral cor ruption; brothers, that their sisters are harlots. What should be the punishment of such a criminal? There is no las upon the statute-book of the country applicable to the instance, because, even in the broad grasp of legislative conception, such as offence has never been deemed probable.

Hon. J. H. Jewett's Letter-Old Line Whiga-Convention, etc.

ELIZABETHTOWN KY., Feb. 3, 1859. Editors Louisville Courier: The Ilon. Justina !! ewett has published a letter to his constituents n several Democratic journals of the State, and hooded every postoffice with pamphlet copies of it Mr. Jewett now holdshigh position at the hands of of the Democratic party. The subjects he discusses are of public interest, affecting the entire or ganization, and as his views are not indorsed, but rejected by a large proportion of the members of his party within the circles of your correspondents's acquaintance, it is, therefore, deemad unneccessary to apologise for presenting any criti cism upon the remarkable document he has cirulated among us. He commences his letter by stating that h deemed it due to the people to address them upon such subjects as, in his opinion, would be "inter sting and instructive" to them. He allndes to the campaign of 1855; to the nationality of the Democratic party, and adds, that "its ranks have bean filled up by refugeed from the ranks of its reditary enemies." He goes on to state that it "common" for our new alties to bring with them their political notions, and "attempt to fasten upou the Democratic party, in a modified em, their principles and policy, and particularly heir party organization and party machinery." What occasion there is for Mr. Jewett to make his unwarranted attack on the Old Line Whigs now co-operating with the Democratic party, may be guessed at with reasonable accuracy, but we are a stisfied he has discovered danger where no one also has an pected it to exist. Those Whys whom he has insulted by his charge juined our ranks in the hour of peil and disaster—when Keutucky was under the misrule of Know Nothingism—when our party had not its present preside of victory—when many stood aghast at the suddenness and terribleness of the political revolution that was going on around them. They ution that was going on around them. They came from choice, not necessity; from patriotism, not selfishness, divesting themselves of past party strict attention to the purchase and sale of articles ies and prejudices to enlist in the cause of equal rights and religious freedom; and they have stood by as and fought with us, hand to hand, with their ancient valor, not for the treasonable purpuse of ultimately leading our party into the meshes of such an organization as the "Sons of Malta," as charged by Mr. Jewett, but, as brave, true unsworn allies to sid us win the splandid true, insworn allies, to aid us win the splendid victory of 1356, and those we have achieved since, in Kentucky and elsewhere. They mingle and vote with the "old guard" of Democracy, wearing no badge of inferiority to distinguish them from those who were born Democrats—and deserving to wear none—and they have been, are, and will be of me and with the second of the be of ns, and with us, to council and in battle, adopted political brothers, with a record attesting their fidelity, and bearing a character above suspicion and reproach.

This thing at the Obl Line Whigs comes with exceeding bad g are from the Hom. J. H. Jewett, but it is not the first time in the history of the but it is not the first time in the history of the world that a man has become dizzy, and perhaps vain, by temporary and surprising elevation. Has Mr. Jewett forgotten to whom he is indebted for the only distinction he ever enjoyed? Was inglon, Marion, and Nelson counties gave large Whig majorities prior to 1855, but in the first two of these counties Mr. Jewett received over fourteen hundred majorit; in his races, and several hundred also in Nelson, and it is angenerous and uncrateful in him now to defaune those benand ungrateful in him now to defame those ben actors who made him all that he is. A large proportion of this vote was given by Old Lin Whigs, and if it had been lost by our party in either race, Mr. Jewett would have been beaten. The voters in the counties named, as well as others, Democrats and Old Line Whigs slike. well remember the incidents attending the canvas of 1555, and the circumstances were certainly such as should cause Mr. Jewett over to entertain most lively sense of gratitude for the support e then received. Mr Jewett, if not forgetful of at least disregarding these obligations, without any assigned cause, has impredently a tempted to excite distrust of his lorner friends. The name, of several Old line Whigs have been men noned in connection with the office Mr. Jewett holds, and this is the only sin we know of their having committed—the only step that has been taken in the direction of the dreaded "Sons of

It is true no Old Line Whig was nominated by upon the heels of these charges, here comes the Hon. J. II. Jewett with his; but neither our eneauiformly voting with the Democracy, repels Mr. Jewett's unworthy accusation as unfounded, and marvels that he should havedared in his presump more emphatic answer than this.

Mr. Jewett has not only turned prophet, seeing and foretelling daugers which exist only on his distempered funcy, but is a very astute logician With his metaphysical scissors he has chipped from the Constitution a theory which is decided that Hemocratic policy observed since our party had an existence, is at war with the letter and spirit of our Federal Constitution. He is oppose the Constitution, and gravely and oracularly declares that a "single reading" of that instrument will dispel the "d lu-ion" of such as couside:

The most dillicult man to argue with is a bigot The most delicult man to argue with is a bigot, and the most tedious thing to answer is non-sense. It commonly be rs with it its own refutation. In Mr. Jewell's opinion, nothing will justify the holding of a convention, for, says he, "nothing is expedient that is nuconstitutional." We hold that conventions, as a general thing, are necessary. They have the sanction of immemorial castom. Our Government is a representative demo-racy; and to find out the will of the soverien people, in matters of nominations, it is genreign people, in matters of nominations, it is gen erally necessary to call them together, hear their choice, and empower delegates to execute their will. The ancient government of Athens was a simple Democracy, where the people gath ered together as one body, heard questions of governmental policy discussed by their orators and propositions were in the assemblies passe upon by the direct vote of the prople. Our people do not meet as the Athenians—they send the Congress, and their State Legislatures, Refree sentatives to not for them. It is impossible that they should all meet togother, and it would be un wise that they should, if they could. Time has ap proved the beneficial wisdom of our governmental policy in this regard. It is "expedient"—it is practicable—it is absolutely necessary. It is the only Democratic way in which the people can govern themselves. Congressmen and State Legislators are the exponents of the will and power of the people can govern the description of the results of the people can govern the description of the results of the people can govern the description of the results of the people can govern the description of the results of the people can govern the description of the results of the people can govern the description of the results of the people can govern the description of the results of the people can govern the description of the results of the people can govern the people can -deriving their authority from them, and re ponsible alone to them-and this argument will llustrate the expediency and the propriety of State and District conventions, where more that one man wants office. Ordinarily it is by them alone that the wishes and choice of the people of a Congressional J istrict are to be satisfactorily a Congressional I istrict are to be situation; collected and declared. How else can conflicting claims and preferences be adjusted among several aspirants? Is there any other possible mode?—
The people are notified—primary meetings are held—they declare their choice—delegates are appointed to execute their wishes, and the nomination is certainly vasily more the act of the people than if one many reast to take and held it indethan if one man were to take and hold it, inde-pendent of any declaration for hum; and it a dis-trict convention is unconstitutional, for the same reason it would be unconstitutional for any county meeting to express a choice for this office.
Then, how under heaven would Mr. Jewett have the people make known their preferences? He Then, how under neaven would Mr. Jewett have the people make known their preferences? He might very consistently, with the opinion he has put fort; soiloquize thus: "I am now your Representative; it is wrong to hold a convention to declare for a man for the office I hold, and until the people decide for some other man, which they can't rightfully do, let it he presumed I am their choice, and I will keep it." Very pretty, that, indeed. indeed.

Here is his argument—" in peorie naturalibus" —eliminated of cumbersome garb. An electoral college intervenes between the people and the office of President. This, says he, "1s the aristocratic feature of our Government;" uext, State Legislatures elect our Senators to Congress. Here, says he, "State sovereignty is represented," and says he, "State sovereignty is represented; and, in conclusion, he quotes the Constitution, where it requires that the members of the House of Reprequires that the members of the House of Representatives in Congress shall be chosen every second year by the people; therefore, he takes it, it is unconstitutional for any council, caucus, lodge, or convention, to meet to ascertain and de clare the choice of the people for the office he holds. Here is an argument that would put Aristotle to the blush. Greek genius never could have resolved such a nice question as this. We would advise Mr. Jewett, so ingenious, so cute is he, to study the dead languages, and try his skill on the inscriptions on Egyptian pyramids and the ruins of Baalbec and Nineveh. If he could be induced to try, perhaps he could get a drop of blood out of a turnip, supposed among common men—it may he "delusively"—to be impossible.

Mr. Jewett takes the ground that every man has the right to declare himself a candidate for Con-

r. J. II. Jowett accepted the nonmation, but the on. J. II. Jewe't now affects to despise such cetings as gave him his lirst political dignity. "Now in the name of all the Gods at once, On what ment des this our Casar feed.

The Con titution of Kentneky reads that a Govrine con utition of recticety reads that a Governor shall be elected every four years by the "qualitied voters" of the State—that means, by the page. According to Mr. Jewett's argument, it is unconstitutional to hold conventions to make nominations for State offices, so we suppose our party must abandon its time-koupre! usage; it is not "in the line of safe preselents." not "in the line of safe precedents not "in the line of safe precedents."

Mr. Jewett re-publishes au extract from a speech he delivered in Congress, and also quotes the celebrated question he put to Hou. Humphrey Marshall, and also the emphatic veni, vidi, vici answer he gave to one asked himself, and then wints up his labored manifesto.

Mr. Jewett owes his party very much. In 1555 he was nuknown to ninety-nine out of every hundred men in his district, and it is believed that if it had not been for the clear numerical strength.

it had not been for the clear numerical strength of his party in the district, and the excited state of the public mind on the questions then before the country, he would have remained in the quiet shales of private lie. In 1357, without even the formslay of a convention, he was permitted to take the track, and now, flattered, perhaps, too much by pust success, with an air of authority, il not defiauce, he lets ilv a shaft into the ranks of our allies, and more in the spirit of dictation than suggestion, condems the established usages of his party. We dely any man to gather from his letter whether he will abade the will of his party or not. He has not the candor to say that will, nor the boldness to say that he will not.
That accolion is unfortunate, sometimes suiciil, which nakes men forgetful of the sources of dal, which no des men forgetful of the sources of their strength. History furnishes examples of outrages committed under the sacred name of liberty, and of demagogues who would invoke the name of the people, when it was their real aim to smother the nonet voir of the under whom they professed to shield the nselves. In American politics, the creater is the people, the creature is their representative, and it is dangerous for one to triffe too rulely with the political power that created him. The full of men has been known to be as suddlen and supervision as their rise and to be as sudden and surprising as their rise, and these examples teach, or ought to teach, all men

At about two o'clock-on Wednesday afternoon screams were heard issuing from apartments in a tenement house, No. 150 Cliff street, occupied by a man named Patrick Roonan and family, conby a man named Patrick Roonan and family, consisting of a wife and two children. The neighbors immediately thronged around the house, but made no effort to discover the cause, though ornes of "Marder" "Help!" and other appeals for anastance were continually made, and evidently by the voice of a woman. In a few admittes the cries became less and less distinct, until they ceased altogether, when Roonan came from the house and into the street, bearing in his hand a hatchet covered with human hair and gore, has own body being also besmeared with blood, which dropped from his hands upon the pavement as he walked along. The crowd scattered as he came among them, and Roonan proceeded at a quiet pace in broad daylight through Cliff street to Frankfort, and from there to the Fourth District Station-house, without being laken into castody.

As soon as Rooman had been secured, several officers started for the scene of blood. Arriving at the place, they found a large crowd at the door, the stairs leading to the apaitments, and the rooms full of people, engaged in talking about the horrible affair. A carriage was procured and the woman taken to the station-house, where Drs. Waterbury and Johnson attended her. LOUISVILLE:

Cit v Affairs-The Auditor's Report.

How his audit stands, who knows save Heaven ? In ancient times, when the term auditor firs came into use, it meant nothing more nor less thun one who hears. Derived from the Latin aidio, to hear or to perceive by the ear, it could mean nothing else. In the course of time, however, it came to signify a judge, or an inquisitor appointed by a judge to find out the truth of disputed matter, and to report thereon. In eithe case, however, in those good old times, the nam bad its well-understood meaning, and the duties of the office thereby designated were so familian to the people that the most simple compreheuded

In modern times, on the contrary, the term an ditor, in nome localities, at least, is not so easy of comprehension. Since it has been understood to mean an officer commissioned to overhall the ac counts presented to him, and to keep such a re cord as might show the true financial condition of the company, corporation, or government, for which he acts, it is decidedly more difficult to attach war meanlag to the term that would be a'lowa' le ta a dictionary. At least, such is the truth with regard to the Auditor of Louisville and it is be with whom we are concerned for the present. We do not understand his mole of an uting, sal if he is a vatid auditor, there are no 2 few who do not know the meaning of the term

We have on more occasions than one, during the last year, called for an Auditor's report, and urged upon our sky fathers and our Mayor the absolute necessity of having one. At last we have a report, and it is now before us nearly i year after the time at which we should have had it. It is a nest goon, blot of sixteen printed, page and looks well enough on the outside. Its title page reads "Annual R port of the Anditor of the Cit of Lausville, for the fiscal year ending March 10th lede.' Perhaps we ought to be satisfied with getilog the document even at this late div, and should console ourselves with the adage, "bette late than never." We shall, therefore, complain no more of the late loar of the coming of the pamphiet, but proceed to note a portion of its

The pamphlet before us does not come up to ou idea of an Auditor's report. As an official docu ment of that character, it is a failure. It does not set forth the Engage | condition of the city as it should, and we venture to say that no one can rise from its perusal with a much better knowledge of our manipal affairs than he had before. The general accounts do not agree with the specific and there are numerous errors of too gross a na ture to be made by an accurate and reliable ac countant. We might adduce many examples in support of what we have thus said, but the follow

In statement No. 2 the Auditor shows that the to tal receipts of the city, loatstanding warrants and cash in the treasury excepted, from all sou rces, for the year ending March 10, 1555, amounted to $545 $39 7c. This statement is made in the general account of receipts, and if it be true, it ought to orrespond with the sum of the receipts as set torth in the individual or specific accounts to which they are carried. They do not correspond however, as any one will see who will take the trouble to compare them. The receipts, when car ried from the general to the specific accounts by the Auditor, stand as follows:

For the Sinking Fund...... City proper and Schools 3 0,894 9

It will be seen at once that here is a considerable discrepancy. Subtract the receipts in the general account from those in the different spe the accounts, as shown by the Anditor, and the difference is $45,805 47. This is quite a consider able variance in the opinion of those who are not accustomed to handle such huge sums of money We do not, as said before, understand this mode of auditing accounts; and if it is right, we neither know the meaning of Auditor, nor comprehend the duties of the office.

Again: the Auditor, in his general account o expenditures, siss numbered 2 in his report, shows that the total expenditures, (warrante and cash in the treasury excepted,) for the fiscal year ending March 10th, 1858, amounted to $547,558 50. The same rule we applied to the receipts should hold good with regard to the disbursements; and it so, the expenditures enumerated in the general account should correspond with the sum of those in the several specific eccounts .-The discrepancy, however, is very great, as will be seen by comparing the following specific disbursements with the general:

For Sinking Fund, $155,833 32
For Water Tax, $6,906 50
For Lou. and Nush. Railroad, $14,738 35 For City proper and Schools, $631.79 742 Now, by subtracting the sum of $547,558 50, as shown in the general expenditure account, from the sum of $631,797 42, as shown in the severs individual accounts, as above enumerated, it will be seen that the variance is $94,238 92. This is, to our mind, another considerable discrepancy. The generally received mode of auditing accounts bes not explain the difference, and if this be the work of an anditor, properly understood, there are many who do not comprehend the functions of the

Again: it will be seen that the accounts in the ngures of the auditor all balance very handsomely The general receipt account balancos the general expenditure account to a cent; the two sides o the sinking fund account are precisely the same; and so of the water tax, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and the City proper and School acounts. They all agree in the footing up by the auditor, and look like very nice book-keeping .-And yet, when we scrutinize these several accounts in general and in detail, we shall discover a slight discrepancy of $69,487 97. Let us see if this is not true. The general receipts from all sonrces, including warrants outstanding March 10th, 1858, and cash put down as being in the treasury March 10th. 1857, are set down by the Auditor at $655,939 84. But when we turn to the receipts as put down by im in the several individual socounts in th same report, we find them to stand as follows.

 For Sinding Fund,
 $168,717

 For Water Tax,
 26,906

 For Lou. and Nash. Railroad, 163,090

pancy is one of the things in which the report before us is consistent.

After stating these huge errors, we might out merate some small ones to show that our Auditor can err in small matters as well as great ones .-For instance, in footing up the accounts of receipts from all sources, the sum is put down at $545,289 79, when it should be $9 more; and in footing up the account of expenditures for all purposes, the sum is put down at $547,558 50, when it should be $1,992 55 less. Tuat is to say the Auditor, according to his own figures, receiv ed $9 more than his general account of receipts shows, and paid out $1,992 55 less than his general account of disbursements shows that he expended. The two sams added together make $1, 00, 53, which, though small compared with the huge mistakes before named, is yet too consider able a discrepancy for an accurate and reliable keeper of the public accounts. We might go on and enumerate other errors in this report, for it is fall of them, but we have already pointed out enough to divest it of the character of a reliable official document. We should be glad to see these mistakes explained and corrected. They look very bad in an Auditor's repor , which cannot claim to have been gotten up burried, r. from the fact that it only came to the public abouths after it should have appeared. It was in hand long enough to have come to the public a perfect thing -a report made up of a general account of receipts and expenditures and indi vidual accounts of every thing for which moue was collected and paid out, all corresponding with one another and showing a perfect unison in part and in detail. Such a report would show what the city owns and what she owes, what her revenues and what her expenditures, when the debts due her fall due, and when what she owes must be paid, and, in few words, would present an exhibit in general and in detail of every transaction of the city through her authorized agents, so that any one in looking over it could bearn all about the financial condition of the city. The report before as is not such a document as we shall show hereafter, if we have not already made it clear to our readers. [For fear, however, that the publishing of such a report by our Kuow Nothing rulers should in jure the credit of the city abroad, we will state, or the benefit of all concerned, that the corpora tion of Louisville owns more than $4,000,000 c property in her own name, while all of her liabilities, con tingent and absolute, are only about $3,000,000. In addition to this, we may state that there is property in the city assessed at more than $30,000,000, every particle of which is bound for the debts of the city, and may be sold for execution for the same. It is clear, there fore, that our city is strong enough in credit to stand as many such reports as her Know Nothiorulers may cause her with.

Marriage by Wholesale. Recent English papers report the trial and con-viction of one Mr. Glosester Gale, who pleader guilty, at the Old Bailey, to having intermarried guttr, at the Old Battey, to having informatried with five ladies, his first wife being alive. The London Weekly Times says:

The prosecutors were prepared to prove a cumber of marriages, but it was said that the fellow made many victims, besides those who were induced to come forward and expase their wrongs to the middle gare. Gale was santageed to pead servetude for four years, and the public would not be dissatisfied if longer punishment had been awarded. There are few greater offenses than that of which this scounded was guilty. But our detestation of his guilt is nearly equalled by nor supprise at the credulity of his victims. Gale's first and only lawful narriege, took place is the loss is the contraction. first and only lawful marriage took place in 1849, and within ten years, he contrived to marry certainly five other young women, and it is believed, several more. Some of these had property, and some are described as pretty, and of a good station in life. With all but the first, he assumed a false many and, in each case, he had made needs ise name, and, in cuch case, he had made non under repre entations. He was either a mer-nant, traveling a good deal abroad, or the mute fa merchant vessel ming long voyages. It seems that he divided his time among It seems that he divided his time among his numerons wives, the rest supposing him on his voyages and travels, during his absence from them. It required a good deal of cunning and audacity to maintain this system of deception for so long a time. The wives who waited patiently at home must have had a large amount of confidence, and been deficient in womanly cur, sity. During his absence, they did not ask to be informed of his progress, they did not ask to be informed of his progress, nor require that he should write to the rom the various places of his temperary si journ. They must never have expressed a wish t) see the lace where he carried on his business, or to se is ship. But more wonderful still is it, how he nduced so many to marry him.

The man was not handsome, for that cruel phoographer, the reporter, describes him as "an in-guiffeant looking little man, with a profuse re-eard and monstache." He was not rich, and he cannot have had money enough to make a show of competence, for when he was taken into custo-dy, thirty duplicates, relating to property be-longing to his wife, were found upon him. STABBING AFFAIR AT THE STATE PRISON .- The officers of the State prison at Charleston were startled again on Saturday last by one of those sudden outbreaks of demoniacal temper on the part of convicts, which no ordinary produce of foresight can prevent. The circumstances, as we leat uthem, are as follows: Peter York, who is erring out a life sentence in solitary confinent for a brutal murder, has recently had a neighbor in an aujoining cell, it follow named Michae Lynch, who was placed in "solitary" as a dan gerous convict. Lynch, it will be rememb re-when we recall the fact, is the party who, whil u trial in the municipal court, at the last Decen ber term, stubbed a witness who had testitie against him, as the latter was possing the prison

's box after leaving the witness stand
As soon as York and Lynch became known to ach other, they commenced taunting each other in the most bitter and vulger manner, which all he threats of their keepers could not prevent.

For several days this war of words was curried on between the prisoners, until Lynch became so exas-cek, were liberated from their cells to be taken t They had scarcely got into the narrow passage way in front of their cells, when Lynch sprang upon York, and thrust the sharpened spoon haudle into his neck several times, making some very ngly and dangerous wounds. The keepers seized Lynch as unickly as possible, while York fell bleeding to the floor. Lynch fought the keepers with the ferocity of a madman, calling upon them to let higher. apon them to let him go, that he might cut il throat of "the black son of a b-h." He was nally overpowered, heavily ironed and returned to his cell. The surgeon of the prison atlended to York's wounds, and expressed the opinion that if the instrument used had been a little sharper either one of the blows would have been fatal. Boston Herald, Feb. 2.

A Parts letter says: "Mr. Morphy may shortly pay a flying visit to Berlin, for the purpose of playing a few games with Lange, Dufresne and Mayet. Auderssen particularly requested him so to do, to close the mouths of the Berliners."

I BELIEVE IT SAVED My LIFE .- Jacob Wooster, o Bush Creek, New Sewickiey township, says: "For two years I suffered the Verilgo, Nausea and Headache, attending Dyspepsia, sometimes so severely as to incapacitate me for any effort-at others, to confine me to my bed. My bowels were often so constipated as to oblige me to use the most powerful purgatives to relieve myself. Indeed, I at last found it necessary o use something of the kind constantly. Last fall I ommenced taking BERHAVE'S HOLLAND BITTERS, and found it just what my case required. I cannot recommend it too highly, for I believe it saved my life.

KNOCKED OVERBOARD.—We learn from the Henderson Reporter that as the Kirk man was coming up the river, below Franklin, a difficulty occurred between two deck hands, when one picked up a billet of wood, and, striking the other with it, snocked him overboard. He sank, and was not seen afterwards. The offender had an examining tial, and was admitted to bail in the sum of $500 to appear at the next term of the circuit court.

The Pacific.—This splendid packet cleared for New Orleans yesterday morning, at 10 o'clock, having a cabin full of passengers, and her decks full of stock—one of the best trips of the season. She had been detained over Saturday night by the crew "jumping," and was compelled to wait till morning to get another crew.

Among the passengers on the Pacific were a number of lords from the rural districts, as well as merchant princes from the city. In the latter list were Marshall Halbert, and A. Zanone, Esqs., who go South on business and recreation.

At Pittsburgh last evening, as we see by ur dispatches, there was 61 feet of water, with lear, mild weather. The Dr. Kane and Hazel
